Is our brain in danger? What is the evidence? What can we do?

The incidence and severity of neurological illness is on the rise. It is estimated that today only one in four children is neurologically and developmentally healthy and well by age 6 - an increase of several hundred percent in recent years. ALS, Parkinson's, Alzheimer's disease, autism and other disorders of the central nervous system are increasing exponentially.

Something is happening. What is it? In this workshop we will explore the hidden causes of brain dysfunction and illness in both children and adults and also carefully discuss available diagnostic and treatment options. Practitioners will come away with a synthesis of new ideas and new, cutting-edge protocols to put into their practice right away.
